Attention:

So, if you've visited our site or seen the comments on Batoto, you'd already know this, but if not... we no longer have one of our Chinese translators. He covered this series and several others. Zefkiel has offered to cover 1 chapter a week of Yaoguai Mingdan continuing from Chapter 32, in hopes that somebody will take his place. I am doing my best to do damange control, but with an editor also leaving, things aren't going too well. That being said, we'd really appreciate a dedicated translator for this series, as well as for Mori Xingguang. Also, ediors would be VERY appreciated, as I have been left as the sole editor for this group. That means that unfortunatly, I will not be able to do release the series we do have a translator for as quickly. So, this series will be continued, just at a slowed pace, unless one of our lovely readers would like to come translate for us. All staff is welcome, and due to how abrupt this has all been, I'm willing to train in order to get this all sorted out. Thanks for your patience. Contact us here:

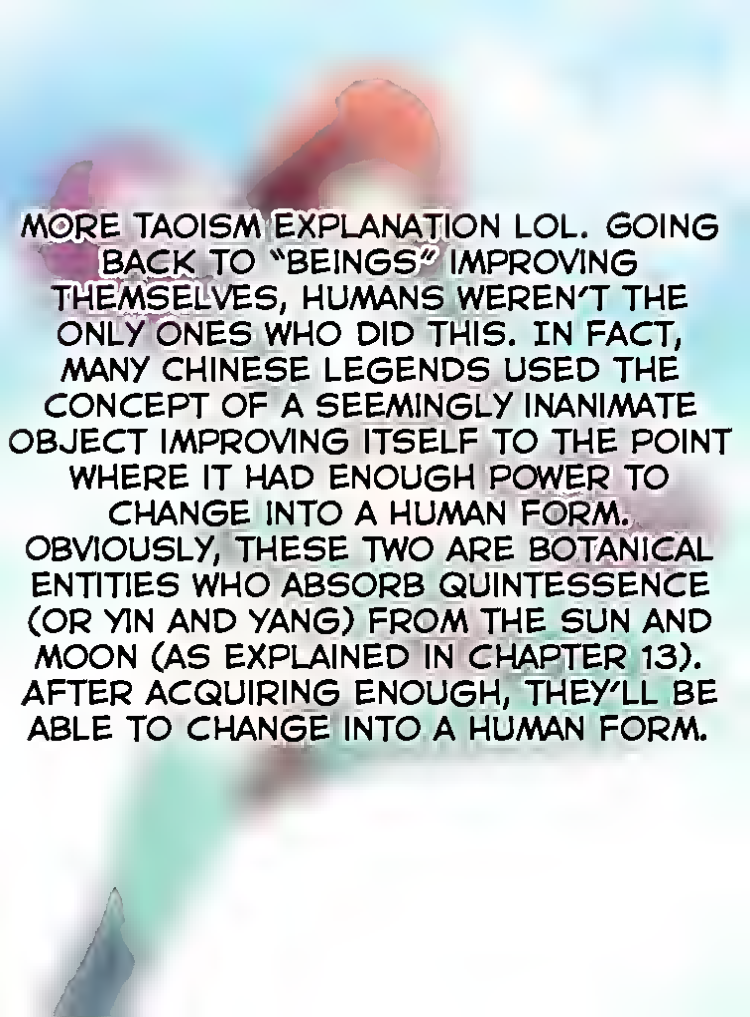
I GUESS... WE HAVE NO CHOICE...



MORE TAOISM EXPLANATION LOL. GOING BACK TO "BEINGS" IMPROVING THEMSELVES, HUMANS WEREN'T THE ONLY ONES WHO DID THIS. IN FACT, MANY CHINESE LEGENDS USED THE CONCEPT OF A SEEMINGLY INANIMATE OBJECT IMPROVING ITSELF TO THE POINT WHERE IT HAD ENOUGH POWER TO CHANGE INTO A HUMAN FORM. OBVIOUSLY, THESE TWO ARE BOTANICAL ENTITIES WHO ABSORB QUINTESSENCE (OR YIN AND YANG) FROM THE SUN AND MOON (AS EXPLAINED IN CHAPTER 13). AFTER ACQUIRING ENOUGH, THEY'LL BE ABLE TO CHANGE INTO A HUMAN FORM.
